

jiggle n juice's
JAWBREAKER
series

Episode 7 - 18/10/2020

Cindy Sherman vs Rachel Maclean

Unpacking two well-known character artists

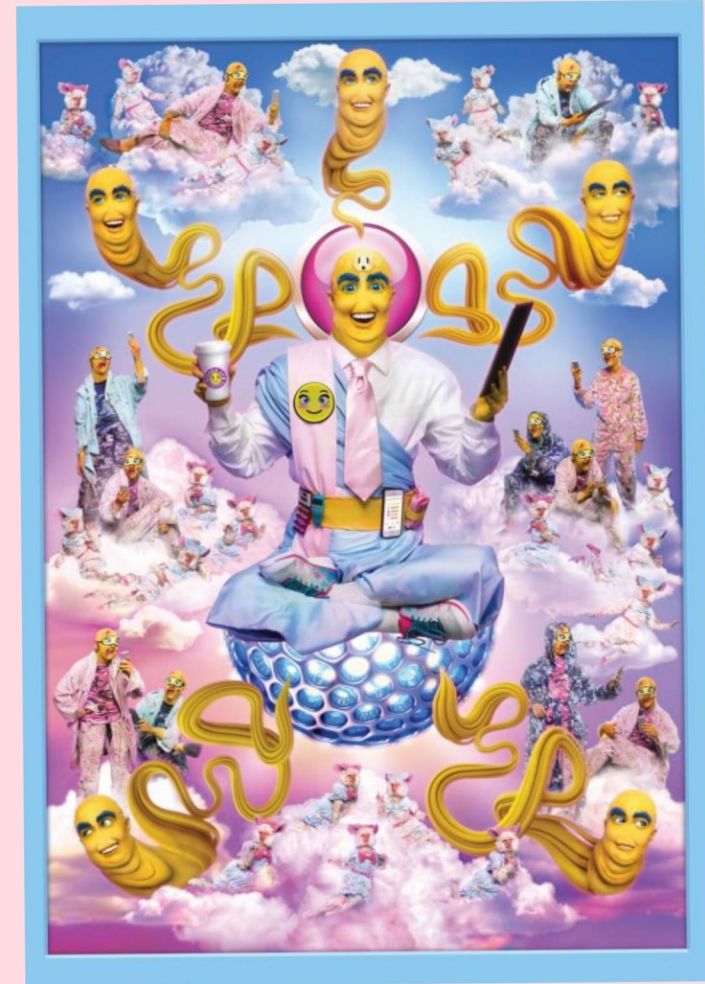

eindy sherman

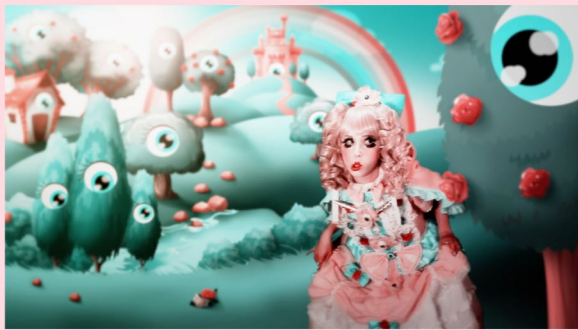

American artist b. 1954 (66 years)

rachel macbean

* Scottish artist b. 1987 (33 years)

"Eyes To Me" - Rachel Maclean (2015)
A short video piece where the main character, a young 'cutesy' girl is being surveyed, coerced and reprimanded by a male voiceover.

"The Centrefolds" - Cindy Sherman (1981)
Reminiscent of centrefolds for men's erotic magazines, reclining figures pose baring varying states of emotion; some daydreaming, others terrified or angry

ARTS & ENTS
7th October 2018

The Beauty Slayer: How artist Rachel Maclean is rewriting art history

By Vicky Allan
Senior features writer

See all 8 images

Save up to 50% on printing supplies
HP PRINT AT YOUR SERVICE
A smarter plan for a smarter business
Learn more

0 comment

Art once belonged to men – to voices such as historian Kenneth Clark. But, with her grotesque images and social media satires, artist Rachel Maclean is taking over, and with a giant emoji smile.
By Vicky Allan

WHEN Rachel Maclean started at Edinburgh College of Art, she bought

"Make Me Up" - Rachel Maclean (2018)
This film takes a satirical look at the contracting pressures faced by women in today's society, such as social media and beauty standards.

"History Portraits" - Cindy Sherman (1988-90)
This series was created while Sherman was living in Rome - she investigated the representation of people in historical portrait paintings/ Old Masters

